THOMAS KEARNS' RESIDENCE

FOUNDATION ALONE WILL COST $12,000.

Contracts for the Mason Work and for Trimming the Stone Were Let Yesterday.

The foundation alone of Thomas Kearns' magnificent new home on Brigham and G streets will cost $12,000. Yesterday the contract for the mason work of the basement up to the water table was let to Marion & Fielding, their bid being $2,668. The contract for trimming the granite blocks of which the basement walls are to be constructed was also let yesterday. This contract went to John Sherriff for $4,300.

The stone used in these basement walls is known as Wasatch granite and comes from the Little Cottonwood. It is gray-blue in color and very hard. Each block will be heavy and partly faced and it is thought that this work will consume the greater part of the winter. The foundation will be sixty-two feet fronting on Brigham street, by ninety-four feet fronting on G street. The excavation is now being made.

Architect Neuhausen is hard at work upon the plans for this residence, which will eclipse anything between Denver and San Francisco in beauty and stability. The style of architecture will be pure Italian renaissance.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NOTES

Mr. J. H. McChrystal of Eureka was in Salt Lake yesterday last.

President George Q. Cannon, who has been ill with pneumonia in New York, is out of danger.

Professor C. Sullivan, a well known mining man of Butte, accompanied by his wife, is at the Knutsford.

Hon. Thomas Kearns, the well known mining man, and his daughter, Miss M. Kearns, are stopping at the Kenyon.

Don McGuire, the mining capitalist of Ogden, was a visitor to Salt Lake during the week, renewing old acquaintances.

Mrs. Mary Judge, Miss Judge and Miss Ivers, who have been touring Europe for some time, are expected home shortly.

Richard Veltman was admitted to the bar of the city, who was married yesterday on recommendation of the examining committee.

Mrs. C. H. McMahon returned yesterday from the east, accompanied by Miss Osgood of Chicago, who will pass the winter with Mrs. McMahon.

The marriage of Miss Sarah S. Cohen and Elias W. Neuberger took place on Wednesday at the bride's home on South Main street. The happy couple will make their home in Butte, Mont.

Miss Agnes Almet and Mr. Albert Gill, both of this city, were married in the temple last Wednesday. A nice reception was given to the young couple at the residence of the bride's parents, 251 G street.

Captain Sullivan of the All Hallows is putting his team through a thorough course of training in preparation for the anticipated game with the University team, to be played a week from next Thursday.

General John Q. Cannon has been granted a thirty days' furlough, during which he will be allowed to leave the state. Colonel M. R. Ritchie will have charge during the absence of General Cannon, who goes east on business, but his departure has been hastened by his father's illness.

Harlow Poulton, 5 years of age, is the latest victim of the bicycle scourge. The child was knocked down by William Stockdale at the corner of Third and Fifth South streets Tuesday evening. Those who saw the accident claim that Stockdale was driving at a twenty-mile-an-hour clip, but this he denies.

Lewis J. Franklin, who was a member of battery B, Utah light artillery, died in California a few days ago of injuries received in a fall from a train. He was a native of Wilmington, Del., and a resident of Brigham City when the war broke out. He enlisted in Ogden. Little is known of his antecedents.

The foundation of the new Catholic cathedral is progressing rapidly, as a large force of stonemasons are at work. A large portion of the east wall is up and it looks very massive. Two or three weeks of nice clear weather and vast strides would be made in its erection.

Alex H. Tarbet, the wealthy head of the wealthy syndicate that bears his name, left for California at noon Monday, accompanied by W. G. Benham and A. J. Schumacher, the latter of whom came down from the Tribune, and a reporter of the Tribune. Every member of the syndicate, with the exception of Clarence K. McCormick, who found it impossible to leave his desk, will be upon the ground during the examination, and should it result favorably, a payment of $50,000 will be made at once, to be followed on April 1 next by the final payment of $30,000, a payment of $10,000 having been made when the option was executed. Since it obtained possession of the group the syndicate has expended, said Mr. Tarbet on the eve of his departure, as much as $10,000 upon the further development of the property that has, according to reports from the management, been with very satisfactory results. It looks very much as if the deal was a go, and that the Afterthought will be added to the syndicate's string of bonanzas.

ALL HALLOWS NOTES.

On Sunday last Mr. B. T. Tippet of this city called upon Benner Gordon.

Mrs. J. Schmidt of Sandy, Utah, visited her son, Julian, on Saturday.

On Sunday last the Thill boys spent a very pleasant day at home in Murray, Utah.

On Sunday last Father Larkin said mass and delivered a sermon at Evanston, Wyo.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hagenbarsh of Spencer, Ida., stopped at the college last week to visit the president and faculty.

Mr. Miles Finlan of Butte, Mont., paid the college a very pleasant visit last week. He was on his way to California, and stopped over to see Father Larkin and Father Murphy.

All Hallows vs. Fort Douglas. A good football game is like good cider. Cider requires a certain amount of tartness to make it pleasant to the taste, but too much acidity spoils it.

So in a football game a certain amount of roughness and playing is necessary to make it game most enjoyable, but too much roughness, or, as some put it, "brutal," makes the game disagreeable for all concerned.

The most game football enthusiast could not be disappointed in the game between All Hallows' First eleven and Troop C eleven at Fort Douglas last Saturday. Though both sides played hard and played to win, the game was played in gentlemanly style from start to finish.

The Fort Douglas grounds are model in one respect—no spectator can come on the field in the way of the players. Lieutenant White appointed six sentries, who kept the crowd twenty feet from the side lines. Would that every football field in Salt Lake were run in that same way.

The All Hallows boys went to Fort Douglas with no hope of winning, not even of scoring. To them the game was only a practice game. No one was more surprised than they at the result. As it was a tumble only two yards from the goal line prevented them from tying the score.

The soldiers had some very swift and accurate catches and had better team work. The score was 12 to 6 in favor of Troop C.

The teams parted the best of friends and hope to meet again at an early date.

MONTANA.

MISSIONS IN MONTANA.

Flocking to Hear Paulist Fathers MacCorry and Hopper.

The provincial press brings us interesting tidings of the good work now being accomplished by the Paulist Fathers throughout the State of Montana. At the close of the Anaconda missions, Fathers Hopper and MacCorry divided forces—Father Hopper taking the eastern territory, including Lewistown, Townsend, Bozeman, Helena, Glacier, Miles City and Red Lodge, and Father MacCorry moving on a westward, visiting Deer Lodge, Missoula, Garnet, Columbia Falls, Kalispell, Havre, Glasgow, Fort Benton and Marysville.

Both missionaries will meet again at Great Falls about the 11th of November, and after a two weeks' mission will go to Helena, where the fathers in Montana will be brought to a close.

A few days ago the Montana Catholic mission was journeying northward. He talked interestingly about mission work in Montana. "It is a field," he said, "where much has been done, but where great things yet to be accomplished for the cause of God."

"Personally," the father said, "I am deeply interested in the non-Catholic apostolate here in the Great Northwest. In this special work we have received the assistance of the bishop of your diocese, and his clergy assist us. It is a great and grand and glorious apostolate, and you no doubt know how we go. The clouds of bigotry and prejudice and abuse are going up from the land miles at a time, and you can find counter men and women, as in other days, who still believe it is needful to hate for the love of God. Everywhere you can find many Catholic audiences who are willing to hear the word of God, and who are with the churchmen of God's truth, what more can we ask for or expect?"

"Give me the word, and God, great things will be accomplished. The judgment shall be laid at our doors."

Interest awakened among non-Catholics during our mission work in Butte. After careful preparation and instruction, if my memory serves me, there were thirteen converts received into the church. How many more were started on the right path and who will one day enter the "Heavenly Home" can only God know.

In Anaconda a few weeks ago there were upwards of 200 non-Catholics in attendance every night. On the occasion of the lecture given by the father, the "Divine of Christ," the father constructed for the benefit of non-Catholics, with anxious, earnest listeners.

objections on his part on one by one until they were all written and groaned and abetted the death of the ignominious all—

"But then you know the world? Iniquity has a thousand heads and sometimes one man can do more damage in his lifetime than twenty others can undo. And what was that a certain man once said: 'The evil that Men Do Lives After Them.'"

"But the train man called the station and the father grabbed his coat—'Goodbye,' he said to the interested scribe, as he grasped his hat—'Goodbye! be good!' and he was gone."

And as the train pulled out and recovered her momentum the Montana man sank back in the cushions of his chair and looking meditatively from the window at the great weary journey, the broken whiteness that reached out from the railroad tracks away and away—'Ah, yes, father!' he murmured to himself, 'that's a world for you! The good is off' interred with their bones.'—Montana Catholic.

BUTTE NOTES.

Butte, Mont., Oct. 28. (Correspondence Intermountain Catholic.) M. Donohue and Mrs. Donohue have returned from the east.

Father Lisner, who has spent the past six years in the African missions, is visiting Butte.

James H. Lynch, accompanied by Mrs. Lynch, visited the Spokane fair during the past week.

Butte gave its citizen soldiers a magnificent reception. There is only one Butte when it comes to doing things right.

Catholic societies and the A. O. H. of Butte were quite prominent in the parades that welcomed home the Montana volunteers.

Senator W. A. Clark, Senator Thomas H. Carter, Governor Smith and others paid eloquent tributes to the valor and military skill of the Montana regiment in the Philippines.

On Tuesday evening there was a grand ball in A. O. H. hall in honor of the returning volunteers. The floor managers were Joseph Labsoniere and W. J. Walsh; caller, H. Richards; doorkeepers, George S. Miller and Frank T. Dolan; badge seller, Martin Martin.

A thanksgiving service will be given at St. Paul's Catholic Church on Sunday evening in honor of companies K and M, just returned from the Philippines. Messrs. Theo. Ehret, Fred Ganzner and Peter Towhey have been appointed to extend an invitation to the members of the company, and to attend in a body. Reserved seats will be held for them in the front of the church. Patriotic decorations, a sermon and music will prevail.

W. T. Lynch, who went to the Klondike in May of last year and later to the new gold district of Cape Nome, returned to Butte Monday with several thousand dollars and a pocket full of nuggets as the result of two months' work at Cape Nome. One of the nuggets contains nearly $300 worth of gold and is almost as large as a hand. Mr. Lynch has several good claims on the Nome river and he will return to that country next spring. He says the Cape Nome district is probably the richest and most remarkable placer deposit in the world.

Major James W. Drennan was one of the best known military men in the state. At the time of the mustering in of the Montana soldiers he was adjutant general of the National guard of Montana. He resigned the higher office to accept the position of major—a rank he had previously held—in the First Montana. He was in several of the early engagements in the Philippines, but was taken sick, and died in the hospital June 24, last. He was born in Ireland and the date of his death was about 32 years of age. He leaves a wife who resides in Bozeman.

Mayor McCarthy, in his speech of welcome to the volunteers, said in part: "At last the news came when you entered the engagement at Calocan. We were disappointed in the loyalty and bravery of our boys? We answer with one accord, No, a thousand times, No. We believed then, as we do now, that it may be the power of other nations to shoot and kill, but it is not in their power to subvert your loyalty or your patriotism for your country. The press of the entire country gave notice to the world that the Montana boys are heroes, and now, as the representative of the citizens of this city, I thank you one and all, independent of either nation or state. Your noble acts speak for themselves; they are matters of record."

THE MONTANA SOLDIER.

(Butte Daily Intermountain.) Here's to the First Montana, the flag they fought for and the girls they lived for!

"Colonel Kessler, your Montana men are true soldiers. Every one of them has done his duty."—General Otis at Manila.

"If I were not a general, I would prefer to be the colonel of the Montana troops."—General MacArthur during a battle near Manila.

"The Montana men are physically the finest regiment of volunteers I have yet examined."—The mustering out officer at the Presidio when they came back.

The whole state of Montana is well.

come in Butte on this glorious occasion. If the reception committee goes broke go to the banks and get what you want.

Butte is so swelled with pride that it may justly claim to be the biggest town in the world today. However, if there are any Helena men here The Intermountain would not injure their feelings, and will withdraw the claim as soon as the celebration shall end.

MISSOULA.

Robert Marcum of Hollenbeck died at the Sisters' Hospital on Oct. 17, from appendicitis. Dr. J. M. Bleiberg performed an operation.

The public library will receive about twenty-five new books in about three weeks. The list will include some of the latest books on fiction, and a few of the leading reference books for the university students.

Miss Ida Hogan, who has been in the telephone office for a number of years, has resigned her position to accept a better one in the postoffice. She will have charge of the delivery window. Miss Hogan is well adapted for the position and will give general satisfaction.

THE CRY OF THE EXILES.

The following poem by the Rev. J. B. Doherty, one of the Boston Pilot's poets, appears in the opening number of the new Irish journal, the Irish People, which is the following compliment to Father Dolan:

The Rev. Father Dolan (Shannon) who contributes the lines: "The Cry of the Exiles" in the opening number, is the best living representative of the lyric gift which gave its touch of sacred fire to the young Ireland bards.

Hear ye the cry of the exile from over the ocean waves, the cry from the South Cross, where mad Niagara raves.

Hark ye the cry from a thousand fields where was fought a fight, from Rannillie Heights, Boston to the west.

Hear ye the cry of the exiles dead, their mandate is "Unite."

Hear ye the cry of the living, the exiles' cry from the misty mountains, and far from the misty mountains, where never a warbler sings.

This is the cry of the exiles, "We've made our beds afar. Our bones shall lie 'neath alien sky across the broad earth's bar. But our hearts are true to Ireland, as poles to the Boreas Star."

Here is the cry of the exiles, "Our souls are sad to see Her ranks all rent and broken, her chiefs that sundered be. Until, let our good people proclaim they shall be free."

Heed ye the voice of the exiles from afar, heed ye the voice of the living, heed ye the voice of the dead, heed ye the voice of the traitor, look ye his hands are red.

See while ye rant and squabble the land's best life blood flows, With anguish, heart and broken, the peasant to exile goes, Bleeding and bound as Erin, the scorn and jest of her foes.

He is a traitor to Ireland who now shrinks back from the fight, Deal him the doom he merits—true men, Cease in God's name to quarrel, brothers be one, UNITE!

Heed ye the voice of the exiles, the cry of the quick and the dead, He that had heads is a traitor, look, and his hands are red, The blood of a murdered nation, the wrath of God on his head.

Heed ye the voice of the exiles, the cry of the quick and the dead, He that had heads is a traitor, look, and his hands are red, The blood of a murdered nation, the wrath of God on his head.

GOD'S HELP.

(Communicated.) There is never a day so dreary, But God can make it bright, And unto the soul that trusts in Him, He giveth songs in the night.

There is never a path so hidden, But God will show the way, If we seek His mercy and guidance, And patiently watch and pray.

There is never a cross so heavy, But His loving hands lift thee, Ourselves we cannot move, The burden to help us bear.

There is never a heart that is broken, But the Sacred Heart can heal, For His Heart that was pierced on Calvary, Doth still for His children feel.

There is never a life so burdened, So hopeless and so unblest, But may be filled with His grace, And enter His Sacred Heart for rest.
